

Directions: Working with a partner, use the following Shakespearean words to write a skit. You may select one of the background contexts provided, or create your own, with approval from your teacher. Make sure to name the speaker before each line, as in a play. Here are the contexts to choose from:

- Words to use in your skit: (Check off as you use each one!)

hie = hurry	thou = you (subject)	soft = wait a minute	ergo = therefore aught = anything	thee = you (object)	hath = has	tarry = wait, remain wherefore = why	thy = your (possessive)	ay = yes	hither = here ere = before	doth = does	nay = no	'tis = it is withal = nevertheless	marry = indeed	art = are	I pray thee = please in sooth = in truth	fie, fie = (when expressing disapproval or distaste)	cur = a dog (insult)	shall = must ado = difficulty	want-wit = fool	sirrah = (addressing male inferior)	betimes = quickly aught = anything	naught = nothing	enow = enough	beshrew me = curse me gramercy = thank you	methoughts = I thought	anon = right now

When in doubt, add -eth to the end of verbs! (He runneth, he trippeth, he falleth)

[illegible]

